Village back on the block

- Rebranded Olympic Village returns to the market
- Average 30 per cent price reduction

MATT KIELTYKA
@METRONEWS.CA

Will a new name and dramatic pricing changes be enough to turn the vacant Olympic Village into a bustling community?

Real estate marketer Bob Rennie hopes so after unveiling the Village on False Creek yesterday.

The development formerly known as Millennium Water went back on the market Thursday afternoon, as Rennie Marketing System put 230 units up for sale at an average price reduction of 30 per cent.

Another 114 units will be made available for rent immediately to help revitalize the area during the real estate push.

"We have a ghost-town cloud over my head," Rennie told media. "You've all written about it, we've all heard about it and I have to remove that cloud."

Rennie said he received 31 offers on units during an early market test, which he takes as a sign the new marketing strategy for the village will work.

MATT KIELTYKA/METRO

▶ Real estate marketer Bob Rennie faces a barrage of media questions Thursday.

But he refused to forecast whether the city could earn back all of the approximately $740 million taxpayers are currently on the hook for.

"As we move forward, the question that everyone is going to ask is whether the city will lose money, or if the city will make money," he said. "It has no bearing (on me). We just have to focus on stabilizing the asset for the taxpayer and maximizing revenue."

Prices for the units put on sale range from $329,900 to $4,100,900.

Shedding pounds, gaining self-esteem

Healthy Habits for Healthy Lifestyles is looking for 10 individuals with a body mass index of 35 or more Program offers help with motivation, exercise and nutrition

KRISTEN THOMPSON
@METRONEWS.CA

The YWCA and University of B.C. are giving 10 overweight Vancouverites the opportunity to drastically change their lives — by getting fit and improving their self-esteem — as part of a 12-week fitness program.

Healthy Habits for Healthy Lifestyles is designed for people who have a "substantial" amount of weight to lose, said Sandy Reimer, associate director of the YWCA Health and Fitness Centre.

"We're providing workouts, motivational support and helping people to establish new healthy habits," Reimer said, adding they will also be addressing nutrition and "emotional issues."

Participants will work out with UBC human kinetics students at the YWCA once a week and be expected to do daily "homework."

"Write down your goals and (successes). When you look at a calendar and can see that you actually did it ... you are motivated for the next week."
SANDY REIMER, ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR OF THE YWCA HEALTH AND FITNESS CENTRE

"Only 18 per cent of the population works out in fitness centres," Reimer said.

"We want to provide a program that opens up to a brand new part of the population, because sometimes (the gym) can be really scary. They can come in, work out together as a group (and) have support."

Reimer said the key to making fitness and nutrition a part of your lifestyle is to focus on small, attainable goals and to take it one step at a time.

"Be consistent and make that commitment to daily exercise ... Those small changes will eventually add up to the bigger picture," she said.

Get on board

The program runs from March 3 to May 19.

- The application deadline is Feb. 24.

SUPERVISED INJECTION FACILITY

Insite gets appeal boosters

An international coalition of harm-reduction experts has been granted intervener status to appear before the Supreme Court of Canada to support Vancouver's supervised injection site.

In 2010, the B.C. Court of Appeal ruled Insite did not violate federal health or drug laws, a decision the federal government is now appealing.

"Insite is an international success story," said Richard Elliott, executive director of the Canadian HIV/AIDS Legal Network.

"Yet the federal government continues to ignore not only scientific evidence, but legal precedent as well."

The outcome of this appeal will carry implications for other jurisdictions looking to implement their own safe-injection sites.

Tree planters still awaiting payment

Dozens of former tree planters are still waiting for $228,000 in pay a month after the B.C. Employment Standards Branch ordered Surrey's Khaira Enterprises to pay back wages.

A review found the workers were not paid for months of work at four camps on Texada Island, and near Revelstoke and Golden.

The workers have filed a human rights complaint alleging they were subject to racism, violence and sexual harassment.

Gassy Jack, Harry Jerome, Lord Stanley and Robert Burns.

Meet the newest hardcore fans of the Vancouver Whitecaps.

The club kicked off a city-wide guerilla marketing campaign Thursday as the 30-day countdown to its first Major Soccer League game launched.

In addition to handing out 500 scarves on the streets of Vancouver, some of the city's most iconic statues were dressed up in scarves and jerseys to build up excitement for the March 19 kickoff at Empire Field.

"People in Vancouver know we're going to be in the MLS March 19, but I think the date has really crept up on a lot of people," said Whitecaps president Bob Lenarduzzi. "The campaign is a way for us to mark the occasion."

Single-game tickets for home games will go on sale to the public Saturday at 10 a.m. through Ticketmaster.

TSN owns the national broadcast rights to the MLS and will air 13 Whitecaps games.

Lenarduzzi said he expects a regional broadcast deal to be finalized in the next three days for the rest of the matches.

Cops tiptoe into alleged drug base

When Vancouver police moved in on a suspected Commercial Drive drug lab on Feb. 10, they were met with surveillance cameras, barred windows and a highly sophisticated door-locking system.

Police on Thursday said Operation Tiptoe, their investigation into suspicious activity at the apartment building, began back in December.

While last week's raid did not reveal a drug lab, officers found and dismantled a base that allegedly facilitates the exchange of stolen goods for drugs.

Officers seized a number of allegedly stolen items from the unit, as well as an undisclosed amount of methamphetamine and a sawed-off shotgun. Seven people were arrested in relation to the search, but no charges have been laid so far. NATALIE KAUR JOHAL

Mayne drops out of Liberal race

Mayne the second hopeful to pull out of leadership contest Four candidates remain Vote to decide winner scheduled for Feb. 26

MATT KIELTYKA
@METRONEWS.CA

You can't blame George Abbott for being in a jovial mood Thursday.

Less than 24 hours after Dr. Moira Stilwell dropped out of the Liberal leadership race and threw her support behind the Shuswap MLA, Abbott was welcoming another rival into his fold.

Parksville Mayor Ed Mayne, another long shot for leadership, announced he was pulling out of the running and urged his supporters to back Abbott.

"Let's hope we can keep meeting like this, I'm loving it," cracked Abbott at a press conference in Victoria on Thursday. "(Mayne) is a man who has huge potential in the political realm. I will encourage him in that."

NDP race

▶ Harry Lali announced Thursday that he was ducking out of the NDP leadership race because of finances. He said he would need to raise $215,000 to run an effective campaign.

Despite his team's insistence that he keep running, Mayne said the decision to bow out was the right one.

"It's been a rewarding five weeks," he said. "We started off with virtually no name recognition outside of Parksville. We may not win, but we'll be able to affect the outcome."

Abbott, former deputy premier Christy Clark, and former cabinet ministers Kevin Falcon and Mike de Jong remain in the race.

The winner will be decided Feb. 26.

Elderly couple discovered dead

The bodies of an elderly couple were found in an apartment building on the 500 block of Nicola Street around 9 a.m. on Thursday.

The woman was found first in the couple's suite and her husband was found shortly afterwards in the building's parking garage.

Police are awaiting autopsy results but do not believe the deaths are suspicious. NATALIE KAUR JOHAL

Ruby goes for gold

Teen in Berlusconi sex scandal wants $20,340 for an interview
Says she's 'been hurt so much'

The Moroccan teenager at the centre of the Berlusconi sex scandal says "all the gold in the world" could not make up for the suffering she has endured.

In an email exchange with The Associated Press, the teen nicknamed Ruby the Heartstealer says she has been "treated as a prostitute by all the Italian and foreign media."

"I WANT TO BE COMPENSATED for having been hurt so much," Ruby, whose real name is Karima el-Mahroug, wrote to the AP in Italian.

Ruby, now 18, requested $20,340 for a full TV interview from the AP, saying: "I don't do anything for nothing."

Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi was indicted Tuesday on charges he paid for sex with Ruby when she was 17 and under age, then used his influence to cover it up.

The abuse of influence charge relates to efforts by the premier to get Ruby out of the custody of Milan police when she was detained in May for an unrelated suspected theft.

His trial begins April 6 in Milan. Berlusconi, 74, has denied ever paying for sex. He has called the accusations "groundless."

Ruby has denied a sexual relationship with Berlusconi, saying he never "put a finger on me."

But she said he had given her $9,500 on their first meeting. Ruby said at the time she gave her age as 24, rather than 17.

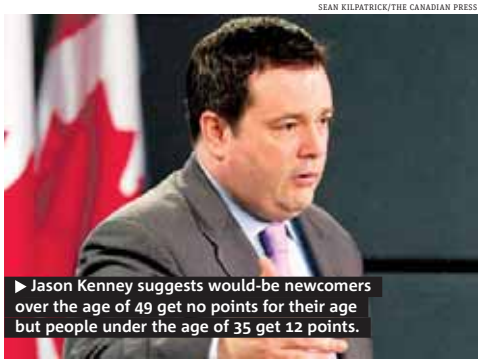
SEAN KILPATRICK/THE CANADIAN PRESS



▶ Jason Kenney suggests would-be newcomers over the age of 49 get no points for their age but people under the age of 35 get 12 points.

Kenney points the way

Minister wants to rejig immigration numbers game He would give points to would-be newcomers who speak one of our official languages

Future newcomers to Canada will be younger, less educated and more fluent in English or French if Ottawa's immigration proposals become a reality.

But the changes may skew the sources of Canadian immigration, says one expert.

"It looks like a big part of this is just a shift in source countries," said Mikal Skuterud, a professor at the University of Waterloo who closely tracks immigrants' progress.

Immigration Minister Jason Kenney launched a month of public consultations Thursday on the proposed changes.

He wants to rejig the point system Canada uses.

Research shows the biggest factor in immigrants' financial success is the ability to speak an official language. So Kenney wants more points given for language proficiency.

Tories accused of hiding cost of new crime laws

The parliamentary budget officer says MPs have been denied the information they need to evaluate the cost of anti-crime legislation.

Kevin Page told the Commons public safety committee Thursday there has not been "sufficient fiscal transparency" when it comes to weighing these expenditures.

The federal government says it will spend $2 billion over five years to absorb more prisoners due to stiffer sentencing provisions in new legislation.

The government didn't provide estimated costs until after the legislation became law and didn't include details on methodology, Page said.

A TV reporter who lapsed into gibberish during a live shot outside the Grammys suffered a migraine, her doctors say.

Serene Branson was doing a standup Sunday when her speech became incoherent. It fuelled speculation that she suffered an on-air stroke.

"A migraine is not just a headache. It's a complicated brain event," said UCLA neurologist Dr. Andrew Charles.

Iraqi riot police officers prevent anti-government protesters from entering the Basra provincial headquarters during a demonstration in Iraq's second-largest city, 550 kilometres southeast of Baghdad, Iraq, Thursday.

Peaceful rally ambushed

Bahrain bans gatherings ◐ Protesters seek to force ruling Sunni monarchy to give up control, address discrimination, poverty faced by Shiite majority

Troops and tanks locked down the capital of the tiny Gulf kingdom of Manama, Bahrain, after riot police clubbed and fired tear gas at demonstrators. Many were sleeping during the pre-dawn assault Thursday. Medical officials said four people were killed.

Hours after the attack on Manama Pearl Square, the military announced a ban on gatherings, saying on state TV that it had "key parts" of the capital under its control.

After several days of holding back, the island nation's Sunni rulers unleashed a heavy crackdown, trying to stamp out the first anti-government upheaval to reach the Arab states of the Gulf since the uprisings in Tunisia and Egypt.

"They think they can clamp down on us, but they have made us angrier."
MAKKI ABU TAKI, WHOSE SON WAS KILLED IN THE ASSAULT

In the assault, police tore down protesters' tents, beating men and women inside and blasting some with shotgun sprays of birdshot.

It was a sign of how deeply the Sunni monarchy — and other Arab regimes in the Gulf — fear the repercussions of a prolonged wave of protests, led by members of the country's Shiite majority but also joined by growing numbers of discontented Sunnis.

The assault may only further enrage protesters, who before the attack had called for large rallies for Friday.

"We are even angrier now. They think they can clamp down on us, but they have made us angrier," Makki Abu Taki, whose son was killed in the assault, shouted in the hospital morgue.

"We yelled, 'We are peaceful! Peaceful!'" said protester Mahmoud Mansouri. "The women and children were attacked just like the rest of us."

Dr. Sadek Al-Ikri, 44, said he was tending to sick protesters at a makeshift medical tent in the square when the police stormed in. He said he was tied up and severely beaten, then thrown on a bus with others.

"They were beating me so hard I could no longer see. There was so much blood running from my head," he said.

Regulator seeks public input on screaming TV ads

- There are no laws in Canada dealing with TV ad volumes, though the U.S. and U.K. have rules
- More than 600 complaints in past three years

If you think TV ads are annoyingly loud or shrill, the CRTC wants to hear from you.

The federal regulator has invited viewers to offer opinions on the issue by April 18, with an eye to fixing the problem of commercials that sound louder than the programming they interrupt.

Loud ads are a "significant annoyance," said Konrad von Finckenstein, chairman of the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission.

Last week, Conservative MP Nina Grewal tabled a private member's bill to require broadcasters to ensure volumes match between commercials and the accompanying show.

"It's a common complaint. You're watching a program at a comfortable volume, the program breaks for a commercial and suddenly you're jolted out of your seat by the loudness," she said at the time.

Asked about the bill, which will be discussed next month, Liberal Leader Michael Ignatieff said he was sympathetic and the issue "is clearly on the minds of millions of Canadians."

On its web page, the CRTC lists a number of reasons TV ads may seem to scream while trying to sell.

They include audio compression levels that are set at maximum loudness and in high frequencies and the fact that an ad may directly follow a tranquil moment in the program.

"Viewers should not have to adjust the volume at every commercial break, and we will work with the broadcasting industry to find an acceptable solution."
KONRAD VON FINCKENSTEIN, CRTC CHAIRMAN

U.S. flight fee ruffles feathers

Department of Homeland Security estimates charge would raise $110 million US

Charging Canadian visitors to enter the United States would hinder trade and travel between the two countries, Prime Minister Stephen Harper said Thursday as a proposed "passenger inspection fee" raised concern on both sides of the border.

Harper's voice was one of many as Canadians registered their disapproval with the American idea of requiring Canadian and Mexican air and sea travellers to pay a $5.50 fee every time they venture stateside.

Harper expressed empathy with the U.S. and its dismal fiscal state — a $14-trillion national debt and annual deficits well over a trillion dollars — but said "additional taxes" on Canadian travellers won't solve anything.

"It's revenue collection, and the mindset seems to be rather than taxing your own citizens, let's go tax someone else."
BIRGIT MATTHIESEN, CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS AND EXPORTERS

"Some 40 per cent plus of the American spending is financed by borrowing. These are enormously challenging figures," he said.

"We want to ensure that trade and travel is easier, not more difficult, and we don't need additional taxes on that kind of economic activity."

Since 1997, visitors from Canada, Mexico and some Caribbean countries have been exempt from the fee, which would continue to exclude travellers in private vehicles, sparing those who make frequent cross-border hops.

"Clearly we're not happy about it," said Michael MacKenzie of the Canadian Snowbird Association.

"We would prefer that the president be focusing on ways of reducing obstacles at the border."

Shipbuilders wary of talks

‘We can do everything in Canada, we don’t need Britain,’ says CAW’s Jamie Vaslet

Shipyard workers say they don’t trust Ottawa’s assurances that new warships and coast guard cutters will be built in Canada.

Jamie Vaslet, of the CAW Marine Workers Federation, said Thursday on Parliament Hill that the Harper government has broken its word before, namely over the elimination of a 25 per cent tariff on ships built outside the country.

He said the idea that Canada is talking to Britain about participation in the Global Combat Ship Program — the Royal Navy’s plan to replace its frigate fleet — “scares the hell” out of him and his members.

“If they’re talking to a foreign government about generic frigates, how long before they sell out everything?”
JAMIE VASLET, LOCAL 1, CAW MARINE WORKERS FEDERATION

Ottawa has downplayed the discussions, and insiders have said they are part of the due diligence needed for funding approval.

Together, the navy and coast guard plan to spend $35 billion on new ships over the next 30 years.

New Democrat MP Peter Stoffer, who has a number of shipyard workers in his Nova Scotia riding, says the Conservatives need to state clearly that “all” work on the new ships, including design, will be done in Canada. THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Fin cheers on the Canucks in an animated short by Slap Happy Cartoons.

5 MINUTES WITH: JOSH MEPHAM

Vancouver-based animation studio Slap Happy Cartoons has developed a number of funny animated short in-arena films using Canucks mascot Fin to coach fans on arena etiquette. Director Josh Mepham chatted with Metro about the challenge of bringing Fin to the video screen.

Tell me a little about the process of bringing Fin to life and giving him a personality.
Fin the mascot is already such a strong personality that it really wasn't all that hard turning him into a cartoon character.

First we threw some ideas around internally at Slap Happy on what sorts of character traits we envisioned Fin having — in and outside of what you see in the arena — and then wrote some gags and story ideas down that we felt suited him ... We wanted these cartoons to be moulded in the Bugs Bunny style, where a confident and cocky lead character has no trouble dealing with the problem in front of him.

All of the shorts were fresh and funny. Do you think it would have been possible/effective to make films about arena etiquette without humour?
Things seem to go down a little easier with a bit of humour injected. These cartoons grab the fans' attention and get the message across without feeling like nagging. Telling someone not to smoke in the arena would typically be quite a dull message, but when you pump a smoker full of extinguisher foam and he skywrites "No Smoking" in the air as he's propelled around 50 feet above the ice, the message seems to get a little more attention.

Which of the Fin films is your personal favourite? How did it feel to see them played live in front of thousands of fans?
Personally, my favourite is the drunk Super Jerk one, just because I've experienced that myself. I was the spillee — not the spiller. We've all seen that guy at the games and seeing it animated cracks me up every time. The animator did a great job of animating him stumbling around and, if I do say so myself, my vocal styling on Super Jerk isn't that bad either. In fact, maybe too good.

Worth mentioning

Ice age Britons drank from human skulls and may even have eaten flesh and bone marrow, but they were far from barbarians.

That's the conclusion of experts studying the oldest known examples of "skull cups," found in a cave in southwest England.

The bowls look almost like works of art, ritual items laced with meaning. Look more closely, however, and it becomes clear they are made from human skulls. Scientists say they are the oldest known carbon-dated skull cups, said by experts to be about 14,700 years old.

British scientists writing in the Public Library of Science journal maintain the cups were fashioned in such a meticulous way that the only credible explanation for their manufacture is that they were used as bowls to hold liquid. If the hunters and gatherers simply wanted to eat the deceased person's brains, there would have been far easier ways to get at them, scientists said.

Experts believe the rare cups — two made from adults skulls, one from a child thought to be about three years old — were used in some sort of ritual, as was common in many parts of the world.

Will James and Anne shine on Oscar night?

The Reel Guys debate the interesting selection of James Franco and Anne Hathaway as Oscar hosts

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Richard Crouse: Mark, I have to say I don't really care who hosts the Oscars. For me the show is about the movies, not the hosts. But I think the choice of Anne Hathaway and James Franco is kind of intriguing, especially since Franco said publicly, "If it's the worst Oscar show ever, who cares?" With that attitude he may bring some much needed danger to the proceedings.

Mark Breslin: Sorry, Richard, I cannot agree! The Oscar hosts are incredibly important to the show. How else are we going to get through the awards for Best Documentary Short, Best Sound Editing and the Jean Hirshholt Humanitarian Award without a little comedy, a little song and a little dance? Which make Franco and Hathaway interesting choices because they don't do any of those things. Then again, anything has to be better than last year's wheezy Steve Martin/Alec Baldwin duo. The big question is, will Franco and Hathaway open with a Black Swan parody in matching tutus?

RC: I can't say if they'll start things off with matching tutus, but I think it is a safe bet that leading up to the category Franco is nominated in this year, Best Actor for 127 Hours, there will be jokes about how "disarmingly" handsome he is, or how he "single-handedly" made the movie a success. Wait for those groaners. What everybody wants is for Billy Crystal to come back and host. He's funny, he's likeable, he's a movie star — well, he used to be, anyway — and he keeps the pace of the show chugging along at a nice clip. Hathaway and Franco are both capable performers, but will they be able to keep things moving along?

MB: Yes, Billy Crystal could have been made Oscar Host For Life. But I guess he doesn't mean much overseas except for select neighbourhoods in Tel Aviv. But here's a question: In the Dead Meal Tickets section, which deceased actor will get the greatest applause? Dennis Hopper or Tony Curtis?

RC: The tributes section is always a favourite of mine, but it does often feel as though someone is standing off stage with an Applause-O-Meter judging who gets the biggest reaction. This year? Who knows, maybe Hopper and Curtis will cancel one another out and leave a little love for departed Canadian Corey Haim. Even in death it seems the Oscars are still a giant popularity contest.

Hosting tips

Mark Breslin, the founder of Yuk Yuk's, has five tips for Oscar host Anne Hathaway and James Franco to warm up the crowd.

- 1. Open with a Song. Always worked for Billy Crystal.
- 2. Make a self-deprecating joke.
- 3. Go into the audience and talk directly to celebs.
- 4. Do a little dance. Make a little love. Get down tonight.
- 5. Lots of topical jokes about the business — not the art — of the Hollywood movie.

Number Four not number one

I Am Number Four
Genre: Science-Fiction
Director: D.J. Caruso
Stars: Alex Pettyfer, Timothy Olyphant, Dianna Agron
⊕½

Isn't it amazing that some movies can fill the screen with action, special effects, and beautiful young actors, and yet somehow still be mind-numbingly boring? I Am Number Four is one of these special cases, a blatant attempt to launch the next teen-driven fantasy franchise like Twilight. The trouble is no one bothered to find source material that will captivate the target audience. Though adapted from a moderately popular novel, work began on the film before the book was published.

Alex Pettyfer stars as a supposedly average teen who is secretly one of the last surviving members of an extinct alien race that is being hunted by another group of aliens. The main problem is that the filmmakers are going for the Spiderman effect of having the audience care equally about the characters' humdrum daily lives and the fantasy world. Sadly, nothing in the "real" sections feel genuine, and the young actors are painfully dull, making this impossible. Sure there are some nice big expensive set pieces, but with no one that the audience can identify with, who cares?

PHIL BROWN

Oliver Sherman
Director: Ryan Redford
Stars: Garret Dillahunt, Donal Logue, Molly Parker
⊕⊕⊕

A small film about a damaged veteran visiting a former army buddy that might not avoid clichés, but works thanks to a subtly suspenseful directorial approach and a trio of extraordinary central performances. Garret Dillahunt stars as the titular vet who hasn't been right since taking a bullet to the head. Dillahunt is equally disturbing and sadly sympathetic in the role and gets strong support from the perpetually underrated Donal Logue and Molly Parker. PHIL BROWN

Unknown
Genre: Thriller
Director: Jaume Collet-Serra
Stars: Liam Neeson, Diane Kruger
⊕⊕⊕

A bit of a twist on The Bourne Identity, Unknown tells the story of one man (Liam Neeson) who wakes from a coma in Germany only to discover someone has stolen his identity. And as if that wasn't bad enough, nobody recognizes him (even his wife) and maniac assassins want him dead. The secret is mostly kept hidden until the film's conclusion but for all its clandestine effectiveness, Unknown feels rather heavy-handed in its plotting.

Wilson and Sudeikis sound like an old married couple after filming a movie about getting a week off marriage

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

The Farrelly brothers' latest comedy, Hall Pass, teams up Owen Wilson and Saturday Night Live star Jason Sudeikis as friends given a week off from marriage by their wives, so the two actors knew they'd be seeing a lot of each other. Metro sat down for a chat with the chummy co-stars to talk about the film — and tried to get a word in edgewise.

You guys have a great rapport. It's sort of the —
Jason Sudeikis: (to Owen) I told you!
Owen Wilson: Convince me.

OK, Owen. What did you think was wrong with your rapport with Jason?
OW: Well, no, I think that it was ... Right from the beginning it seemed like, even when we just spoke on the phone, we were going to get along. Also, his schedule is so crazy, having to leave and stuff. He was constantly the new kid. New cliques had formed, and I had to put my arm around him — "Come here! You can still sit here at lunch!"
JS: (to Owen) I remember the first couple weeks, you were like, "God, now I know what it feels like to be from a broken home. Someone goes away and they show up whenever, all willy-nilly."
OW: It really was hard. Like, "God, I can't wait to see Jason ... Oh, he's not here?"

Given your obvious rapport, how was it working with Farrelly brothers as far as improvising material?
OW: They were pretty encouraging for you to try stuff.
JS: Absolutely.
OW: But they definitely wanted to try to get one as scripted, and we could because it was a good, funny script. But yeah.

▶ Owen Wilson and Jason Sudeikis star in Hall Pass.

JS: It wasn't so much improvised like the cameras rolling and you're just burning film. It's usually a discussion.

That muscle gets worked a lot at SNL, so I feel fairly decent at trying to throw my hat in there. It's tough to just run a can of film and expect gold to come out.

There were too many good, thoughtful writing brains on that set to just blue-sky it like that.

The Farrelly brothers have mentioned you guys played a lot of games on set.
OW: They do a game. You know how the newspaper puts people whose birthday it is? He would say whose birthday it was, and then you'd guess how old. And Pete Farrelly dominated.
JS: Like in golf scores, the lowest score wins.

Maybe he just sits home and memorizes people's ages.
JS: He was so good at it, you could almost accuse him of that.
OW: He won so much money.

▶ William Fichtner stars in Drive Angry 3D.

Fichtner takes a drive into hell

Actor enjoyed chance to play the devil's right-hand man Said it's not a role you can do much research for

STEVE GOW
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

When the script for Drive Angry fell into the lap of William Fichtner, the familiar face from films like Date Night and TV's Prison Break knew he just had to be in the movie.

"Cool part, that's what I thought," explained Fichtner recently in Toronto about playing the devil's right-hand man in the hardcore thriller. "(There's) really no reference point for playing a character like that. It's not like you can call someone up and go, 'You worked in hell for three years, tell me what's going on.'"

A stylized 3-D action flick, Drive Angry casts Nicolas Cage as a mysterious man whose search for his kidnapped granddaughter leads him to a satanic cult even while he's tracked by Satan's own accountant (Fichtner).

As supernatural as that sounds, the film's origin was actually inspired by the rawness of 1970s action films featuring Steve McQueen and Charles Bronson.

"(He's) very quiet but he's really prepared. He definitively knows what he wants and on (shooting) day, he wants to come out and get it right off the bat and I love that."
WILLIAM FICHTNER ON NICOLAS CAGE

Recognized

William Fichtner on what role he's most recognize for:

▶ "I get a lot in airports 'where did you go to school?'" laughed Fichtner. "Yesterday I was walking down the street here in Toronto and somebody came up and quoted a line from an obscure little comedy I did years ago called Drowning Mona. Now that's cool!"

"Those were my high school/college years so I loved (those movies)," admitted Fichtner. "As far as the 3-D goes, I don't think I knew (it was 3-D) until a week before we started shooting. My first thought was 'is that good?'"

In this case, it is good. Delivered by the same creative team behind 2009's My Bloody Valentine, Drive Angry (which opens next Friday) utilizes 3-D to full effect hurling ceaseless action in the viewer's face.

"They're a lot more fun to watch than they are to do," admitted the actor about making action movies like Drive Angry. But while filming intense fight scenes and muscle-car chases may be exhausting, Fichtner wouldn't trade it in for the world. "I love making movies; there's nothing that I love more than sitting on a set thinking 'this is just so cool'… and Drive Angry had so much of that."

Top 3 Presidents Day movies

While we don't celebrate Presidents Day here in Canada, it's a great excuse for a presidential movie marathon Here's a look at three favourite commanders in chief, as depicted on the big screen And you don't have to be American to appreciate these classic performances

Every possible kind of U.S. president has been depicted on screen: corrupt ones and honourable ones, real ones and fictional ones.

So with Presidents Day coming, it's as good a chance as any to say hail to the chief. Here's a look at three favourite movie presidents.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Peter Sellers in Dr. Strangelove or: How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb (1964)

Stanley Kubrick's biting political satire allows Sellers to show off his comic genius and the breadth of his transformative powers in not one but three distinct parts: as the proper British Group Captain Lionel Mandrake, the volatile former Nazi Dr. Strangelove and President of the United States Merkin Muffley.

This last role is actually his most subdued — in a room full of mad characters, Sellers serves as the understandably horrified voice of reason.

2

Kevin Kline in Dave (1993)

One of Kline's best performances in one of the best films Ivan Reitman ever directed and Gary Ross ever wrote. Like Sellers in Dr. Strangelove, Kline has multiple jobs here: He stars as Dave Kovic, a mild-mannered guy who runs a temp agency.

But Dave happens to look exactly like President Bill Mitchell, and is secretly called on to impersonate Mitchell when the president suffers a stroke. Dave makes the most of this challenge, cutting the budget, bringing a new, upbeat tone to the Oval Office and even falling for the first lady.

John Travolta in Primary Colors (1998)

This is a bit of a cheat, because for a long time, Travolta is playing a candidate for president. But he's clearly patterned on Bill Clinton, and Travolta's performance is dead-on.

With the combination of Mike Nichols' direction and his longtime collaborator Elaine May's script, of course Primary Colors is going to be sharp and insightful. But Travolta brings the film to life — and does some of the best work of his career — as Gov. Jack Stanton.

He's charming as hell in that smooth, Southern way, but he's also flawed and self-destructive, with a weakness for women.

Oh the humanity!

Computer whips us at Jeopardy, but there's still a place for people, right?

▶ Jeopardy contestants pose with Watson, the IBM-created megabrain, who beat the veteran champs with a total of $77, 147 over two exhibition matches.

Machines first out-calculated us in simple math. Then they replaced us on the assembly lines, explored places we couldn't get to, even beat our champions at chess. Now a computer called Watson has bested our best at Jeopardy!

A gigantic computer created by IBM specifically to excel at answers-and-questions left two champs of the TV game show in its silicon dust after a three-day tournament, a feat that experts call a technological breakthrough.

Watson earned $77,147, versus $24,000 for Ken Jennings and $21,600 for Brad Rutter. Jennings took it in stride writing, "I for one welcome our new computer overlords" alongside his correct Final Jeopardy answer.

The next step for the IBM machine and its programmers: taking its mastery of the arcane and applying it to help doctors plow through blizzards of medical information. Watson could also help make Internet searches far more like a conversation than the hit-or-miss things they are now. Watson's victory leads to the question: What can we measly humans do that amazing machines cannot do or will never do?

The answer, like all of Jeopardy!, comes in the form of a question: Who - not what - dreamed up Watson? While computers can calculate and construct, they cannot decide to create. So far, only humans can.

"The way to think about this is: Can Watson decide to create Watson?" said Pradeep Khosla, dean of engineering at Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh. "We are far from there. Our ability to create is what allows us to discover and create new knowledge and technology."

Experts in the field say it is more than the spark of creation that separates man from his mechanical spawn. It is the pride creators can take, the empathy we can all have with the winners and losers, and that magical mix of adrenaline, fear and ability that kicks in when our backs are against the wall and we are in survival mode.

What humans have that Watson, IBM's earlier chess champion Deep Blue, and all their electronic predecessors and software successors do not have and will not get is the sort of thing that makes song, romance, smiles, sadness and all that jazz. It's something the experts in computers, robotics and artificial intelligence know very well because they can't figure out how it works in people, much less duplicate it. It's that indescribable essence of humanity. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arcade trivia

Did you know that lead singer Edwin Butler, who grew up in Texas, has lived for almost a decade in Montreal, where he met his wife and fellow band member, Regine Chassagne.

Fete Nationale organizers say Arcade Fire can perform — but not in English

They may be the toast of the music world but, if they ever want to play the Fete Nationale celebration in their own hometown, Arcade Fire won't be allowed to do it in English.

Organizers of Montreal's Fete Nationale celebration say the band would have to sing their songs in French, like any other act playing at the festival for Quebec's annual holiday.

The chief organizer said Wednesday that the Grammy-winning band would be welcome to play the June 24 event if they wanted to.

"As long as they conform to certain guidelines," Luc Savard, director general of the event, told The Canadian Press.

When asked whether those guidelines included not singing in English, and performing in French instead, Savard replied, "Voila."

The question of whether Arcade Fire will attend is actually moot for this year: the group will be touring Europe this summer, and Savard says this year's acts are already booked anyway.

Arcade Fire does include the occasional French line in its songs but the band, and its U.S.-born frontman, sing almost exclusively in English.

When they took to the stage at the Grammys they expressed thanks, in English and French, to the city of Montreal and later gushed to reporters backstage about their love for the place.

After winning the best-album Grammy this week, the group went on to England where they were named the top international band at the BRIT awards.

Your favourite rock heroes have gone through a whole lotta changes

METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOSTON

You don't maintain a 40-year career in the music business without reinventing yourself every once in a while.

Former Led Zeppelin frontman Robert Plant is the most recent rock veteran to undergo a seemingly effortless transition into another successful phase of his career, with his second bluegrass flavoured album, Band of Joy. Here we look at the drastic changes he's made throughout his tenure in the music industry and the drastic changes of some of his peers.

DARREN HAUCK/GETTY IMAGES

Neil Young

First contact: In the '60s, Young established himself as a solo artist, a guitarist for Buffalo Springfield and a collaborator with Crosby, Stills and Nash.

First change: Singing in an electronic voice against synthesizers, 1982's Trans album didn't sound like anything he'd done before.

Big surprise: His follow-up, Everybody's Rockin', was all rockabilly tunes; it was so un-Neil Young that his label sued him for making music unrepresentative of himself.

New horizons: As grunge became popular in the '90s, Young was cited as a major inspiration. It seemed to help him reclaim his past, while experimenting further.

DAVE HOGAN/GETTY IMAGES

Robert Plant

First contact: As the singer for Led Zeppelin in the '60s and '70s, Plant and pals basically define how hard rock should sound.

First change: After Zep's breakup in 1980, Plant made a string of solo albums with a decidedly modern feel, eschewing the emphasis on guitars that made his band such a hit.

Big surprise: Plant's 1985 EP with the Honeydrippers was '50s covers. The song Sea of Love became his biggest hit, which reportedly upset the singer, as he feared he'd be known for this style.

New horizons: Raising Sand, Plant's first foray into bluegrass with singer Alison Krauss, is a commercial success and wins the Album of the Year Grammy in 2009. This halts any plans of a Zep reunion tour.

KEVIN WINTER/GETTY IMAGES

Bob Dylan

First contact: Arriving on the scene in 1962, Dylan's poetic original lyrics and folk guitar accompaniment make him a hero to a generation of aspiring folkies.

First change: In 1965, Dylan is ready for his times to be a-changin' — he plays an electric guitar at the Newport Folk Festival, upsetting many fans.

Big surprise: Three-way tie between 1969's country-tinged Nashville Skyline, his 1979 born-again Christian LP, Slow Train Coming and 2009's Christmas in the Heart.

New horizons: Dylan continues to tour and release albums. As anybody who has witnessed him live or listened to his latest releases will tell you, both pursuits are of varying quality.

DAVE HOGAN/GETTY IMAGES

David Bowie

First contact: Bowie's 1969 ode to astronauts, Space Oddity, laid the groundwork to show us that this was one weird artist worth watching. For 40 years, he has not disappointed.

First change: One of his first ch-ch-ch-changes was his invention of the alter-ego persona Ziggy Stardust, whom he used to dress up as throughout the early '70s.

Big surprise: After a decade of artsy reinventions and experiments, in the '80s, Bowie resurfaced with Let's Dance, a slick pop look and sound.

New horizons: Bowie has continued to push boundaries, dabbling in noise rock and electronica with good results. However, he hasn't released an album of new material since 2003's Reality.

Mel's ex awaits verdict

Could face jail time if found guilty of extortion

Los Angeles sheriffs have wrapped up a seven-month investigation into whether Oksana Grigorieva extorted ex-boyfriend Mel Gibson for millions of dollars using recorded phone calls in which he was verbally abusive and threatening, according to People magazine.

Investigators also looked into claims that Gibson was physically abusive to Grigorieva. Prosecutors will now decide how to proceed, and if Grigorieva is found guilty of extortion, she could face several years in prison.

Halle, Gabriel set aside differences — for now

Despite what's become a bitter custody battle and war of words, Halle Berry and Gabriel Aubry seem to be putting their differences aside for the sake of their daughter, according to Radar Online.

"Gabriel and Halle even resumed talking again last week, and it seems that Halle is going to be making it easier for Gabriel to spend time with Nahla, which has been a sticking point between the two up till now," a source says.

"Hopefully this is the start of the two of them being able to form some kind of workable co-parenting relationship for the sake of their daughter."

Fantasia snubbed at Grammy's?

While she was nominated for a Grammy — and won — Fantasia Barrino decided to sit out the ceremony because she wasn't invited to be part of the star-studded Aretha Franklin tribute that opened the show, she tells BET.

"They were honouring someone who was my idol, and there is no way I could have sat there and not got the happy feet and wanted to jump on the mic because she is my favourite," she says.

"I felt like, you know, at the end of the day I should have been on that stage."

CBS duped by Lohan's dad

Executives at CBS claim they were duped by someone in Lindsay Lohan's inner circle into believing that the troubled actress would appear on David Letterman's show to read the Top 10 List, and it turns out that certain someone was her dad, Michael Lohan.

"Someone purporting to be a friend of Lindsay's reached out to the show, allegedly on her behalf, and booked her to appear," a statement from CBS reads. "Clearly, this person was not authorized to make commitments on her behalf."

In his defense, Michael says Lindsay liked the idea, but it was shot down by her handlers. "Anything positive that I bring into her life ... [her people] try to nix it," he says.

It's a boy for Natalie

Natalie Portman is reportedly expecting a baby boy with fiancée Benjamin Millepied, according to Life & Style.

"They've only told a very small group of family members and friends that they're expecting a son," a source tells the magazine.

"They are so excited. Benjamin cannot wait to be a father."

Portman, who is due in the spring or early summer, opted to skip last week's British academy of Film and Television Awards in London because of her pregnancy.

Though no one knows better than I that you can't judge a wine by its looks, that hasn't stopped me from being a closet fan of eye-catching labels.

If a winery has put some effort into its front panel (and by effort I mean some ingenuity that doesn't look like it was birthed by a team of business suits), I'm curious to find out if the juice delivers the same wow factor.

That's what initially intrigued me about Kilikanoon Wines' 2007 The Lackey Shiraz ($17.95 - $19.99).

I was drawn to the Aussie wine's strikingly simple black and white label, which displays its name in rustic bold letters and a haphazardly dropped pair of Blundstone boots.

Like the nearly indestructible footwear, The Lackey keeps on trucking with a dark, thick, youthful black fruit flavour and a lingering licorice spice trail that sets it apart from all the cookie cutter shiraz out there.

If you really want to fill your boots try matching it with something like a chunky beef stew.

Enjoying curries can add a little spice to your life, and keeping curry powder or Thai curry paste in your pantry will help give big flavour to your quick dinner ideas.

Use fresh curry powder for the best flavour and be sure to store it away from heat sources. Also, go to bulk stores or spice markets where you can purchase a small amount if you haven't used it before.

You can buy Thai curry paste in grocery stores in jars or envelopes. Once it is opened, store it in the refrigerator. Curry paste has a long shelf life but be sure to check the best-before dates on the jar.

Once you get a taste of both these flavourful curries you will want to kick up the flavour in the kitchen more often.

For this first recipe, combine fresh vegetables with must-have ingredients in your pantry for a five-ingredient Thai soup that will win rave reviews.

Simple curry, exciting taste

Ingredients:

- 1 tbsp (15 mL) canola oil
- 1 tbsp (15 mL) Thai red, green or yellow curry paste
- 1 lb (500 g) top sirloin grilling steak, thinly sliced
- 1 onion, sliced
- 2 red bell peppers, sliced
- ½ cup (125 mL) beef stock or water
- ½ cup (125 mL) coconut milk or sour cream
- 2 tbsp (25 mL) fish sauce
- ¼ cup (50 mL) chopped fresh basil or coriander

Preparation:

1. In a large skillet or wok, heat oil over medium-high heat. Add curry paste and cook for 30 seconds. Add beef and stir-fry for 5 minutes. Remove to plate.
2. Add onion and peppers to skillet; cook, stirring for about 10 minutes or until vegetables begin to brown. Add stock, coconut milk, fish sauce and browned beef; simmer for about 5 minutes or until slightly thickened. Stir in basil.

Options:

Vegetarian: Use 1 pgk (350 g) extra firm tofu, cubed, instead of the beef. Replace fish sauce, with soy sauce.

Chicken: You can use 1 lb boneless, skinless chicken breasts, cut into chunks for the beef. Use chicken stock.

NHL crews ready for the classic

Mother Nature is treating the NHL's second outdoor game this season kinder than the first.

Warm, damp conditions forced the league to push the Winter Classic at Pittsburgh's Heinz Field on Jan. 1 from afternoon to evening in an attempt to avoid rain. The game was rained on anyway.

There will be no such sogginess Sunday in the NHL Heritage Classic between the Calgary Flames and Montreal Canadiens at McMahon Stadium. Temperatures in Calgary steadily dropped over the last week to -20 C on Thursday morning, providing the NHL's Dan Craig with the ideal conditions to create two inches of ice on the field.

Flurries Thursday night and continuing cold into the weekend was Environment Canada's prediction. Temperatures are expected to rise to a spectator-friendly high of -1 C, with clear skies.

"That's what we want," Craig said.

If the forecast holds, the Heritage Classic in Calgary will feel more comfortable for players than the previous one in Edmonton in 2003 that had a wind chill of -30 C.

Frigid temperatures aren't ideal for ice because it can turn brittle, but Craig is combating that in Calgary with a heat line to the ice to keep the base at an even -10 C. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Busy Canucks slowed down in Nashville

spate of injuries weakens Vancouver

3	1
PREDATORS	CANUCKS

Nick Spaling and Mike Fisher scored second-period goals 49 seconds apart as the Nashville Predators beat the Vancouver Canucks 3-1 on Thursday night for their third victory in four games.

Fisher's goal was his first since he was traded to Nashville a week ago. Martin Erat added a goal and an assist.

Nashville evened the season series at a game apiece. Vancouver, which leads the West, remain the NHL's top team.

Daniel Sedin scored a power-play goal for the Canucks, who were playing their third game in four nights. Kevin Bieksa was a scratch due to a broken bone in his left foot, their sixth defencemen out due to injury.

All the injuries and a couple of rookie replacements had defenceman Christian Ehrhoff on the ice for a game-high 27 minutes 13 seconds.

Vancouver had its chances, outshooting Nashville 36-26. But goalie Pekka Rinne stopped 35 shots and improved to 15-2-1 when his teammates score at least three goals.

Erat put the Predators up 1-0 when he scored his 10th off the rebound of his own shot from the slot, getting it past Roberto Luongo at 14:13.

Nashville was called for too many men on the ice, and Sedin scored with a wrist shot from the right circle off an assist from his brother Henrik 28 seconds later. It was a rare goal against the NHL's best penalty killers on home ice THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Someone you meet on your travels over the next 24 hours will become not only a friend but also a collaborator in some kind of creative project. There is a chemistry between you.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 The planets indicate that if you have a plan and if you make a serious effort to put that plan into effect there is nothing you cannot accomplish. Self-belief is necessary, too, of course.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 The Sun in Aquarius has endowed you with no end of confidence, and you're going to need it over the next few days. Today though, you should take a trip of some kind. You'll think better when on the move.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 There is no point trying to convince yourself that everything is fine when all your senses, including your sixth sense, are telling a different story. Something is bothering you and the time has come to deal with it.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 A full moon in your sign will help overcome any embarrassment you might feel at revealing your innermost feelings. Even if you are the kind of Leo who rarely gets emotional, share what's in your heart.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You have begun a lot of new things since the start of the year but how many of them mean much to you? Give it some thought throughout the day.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 This is a good day for getting things done. If you are smart, you will get them done by yourself. There will be a fair amount of tension in the air, so keep your distance if you can.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Sometimes, you can be ultra sensitive to criticism. If you hit back at people whose opinions you don't much like today, there could be a falling out.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 You'll have no problem letting others know what you think and feel — the full moon in Leo compels you to speak your mind. Don't forget that words, like actions, have consequences. Think before you open your mouth.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 You may or may not come into money over the next 24 hours, but you will certainly be thinking about your finances. Whatever you decide, avoid get-rich-quick schemes.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 If you focus your energy in a single direction today you might achieve something remarkable. There can be no more doubts and no more wondering if you are making the right move. Don't think — act.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 It's time to get rid of a fear that has no basis in reality. It does not matter what caused it, it matters only that you grow out of it. Start living with purpose. SALLY BROMPTON
